

C G JUNG INSTITUTE OF CHICAGO

The Money Complex: Healing Money Issues – Your Own and Others’ with Amy Sprague Champeau, LMFT

Saturday, March 7th, 2009 10:00 am to 4:00 pm

According to James Hillman (1982), “Since money is an archetypal psychic reality, it will always be inherently problematic...therefore, money problems are inevitable, necessary, irreducible, always present, and potentially if not actually overwhelming. Money is devilishly divine.”

We need only look around ourselves. Everywhere there are indications of the impact of our collective unconscious beliefs and behaviors around money. Some experts say that money is the greatest taboo. Many people would rather talk about their sex lives than their money lives. Yet, money touches every aspect of our lives. It is time to bring ‘money’ out of the shadows and become more conscious of our own dysfunctional beliefs and behaviors around money.

This will be a practical workshop. It will not tell you how to invest your money. It will help you begin a journey to understanding your money ‘complex’ and the money ‘scripts’ from the past that drive you. We will pay special attention to bridging the theoretical material around the ‘money complex’ to current work in the new field of financial therapy with the goal of applying these ideas to personal and clinical situations. The class is experiential. All materials will be provided.

Required Reading:

- Hillman, James, "A Contribution to Soul and Money", in Lockheart, et al., Soul and Money, (Dallas, Texas: Spring Publications, Inc.), 1982 CLICK HERE TO DOWNLOAD ARTICLE
- Klontz, T, et al., The Financial Wisdom of Ebenezer Scrooge: Five Principles to Transform Your Relationship with Money, Deerfield Beach, FL: Health Communications, Inc., 2006.

Learning Objectives:

- To explore the money complex as a path to the soul
- To examine the role of money in the psychotherapeutic relationship
- To explore working with one’s own or others’ money complex issues

LOCATION

Loyola University Water Tower Campus, 25 E. Pearson, Chicago IL

DISCUSSION FEE

$100 – 5 CE credits

$40 for students

For all registrations visit www.jungchicago.org

Amy Sprague Champeau is a licensed marriage and family therapist and candidate in the analyst training program at the C. G. Jung Institute of Chicago. Amy's personal and professional work on money issues was recently featured in the New York Times. She is in private practice in Racine, WI.

The C. G. Jung Institute of Chicago is approved by the American Psychological Association to sponsor continuing education for psychologists and by the Illinois Department of Professional Regulation to provide continuing education (CE) credit for social workers, professional counselors and marriage and family therapists. The Institute maintains responsibility for this program and its contents.